THE EAGLE PRINTING CO.

DO THE PEOPLE OF BRYAN WANT A LIVE DAILY.

On March 31, the Eagle began the experiment of giving its readers the very best telegraph news service to be had. This service is not only far in advance of anything heretofore attempted in Bryan, but better than is published in any other paper in Texas in a city anywhere near the size of Bryan. Indeed there are many towns two or three times as large as Bryan that do not give this service or anything to be compared with it in cost or in excellence. It contains all the big news of the world up to 3 o'clock of the day of publication, and reaches its readers at least twelve hours in advance of any other paper, making a specialty of Texas items. For instance, we supplied our readers far in advance of all other sources of information, with the Fort Worth fire, the Ada lynching, the Marshall shooting and subsequent lynching, the Waters Pierce fine, the important acts of the legislature and of congress, the deposition successor of Sultan Abdul Hamid, and other things too numerous to mention.

Of course, such a service cannot be had without cost, and the expense has been even greater than we anticipated. We expected when we began it, and as announced, that the increase in our circulation would compensate us for the additional outlay, amounting to more than one hundred dollars a month. But in this hope we have been disappointed. There has been a slight increase, but not a tithe of what we feel we have a right to expect. As matters now stand, the receipts for subscription are not paying the cost of publication.

There are three horns to the dilemma that confronts us. We must increase our circulation; we must increase the price of subscription; or we must discontinue the telegraph news service. Which shall it be? It is up to the people of Bryan to decide.

For ourselves, we very much prefer the first, and shall not give it up unless we are forced to do so. We are sending out Frank Buchanan and Garland Carnes to make a thorough canvass of the city, of the College and of the rural routes; our hope is that the response will be such that we can continue to merit the praise of such distinguished visitors as Dr. Carroll who said: "The Eagle is the best paper I ever saw in a town the size of Bryan."

THE SONG OF MORE AND LESS.

Here is the latest lyric of the Fort Worth Star: "More diversification and less demagoguery, more peanuts and less politics, more poultry and less prejudice, more split log drags and less stump debates, more battleship hogs and less bombastic humbug, more hustle and less hot air, more development and less delay, more outside capital and less inside condemnation, more busy dollars and less buzzing drones, more markets and less moss-backs, more railroad mileage and less repressive measures, more cash and less credit, more vim and less vitriol, more homeseekers and less howlers, more eggs and less ego, more dairy cows and less constant dreaming, more mules and less muck-rakers, more beadstuffs and less bales, more substantial charity and less smug complaisance, more taxable values and less vicious talk, more dollars and less demagogues, more dimes and less do nothing, more—but what's the use? Fix up your own litany of more of the things that are no account—then hit the line hard for home and prosperity."

The new Sultan of Turkey must be a radical reformer—he has only two wives.

Mrs. Mary Holmes Bates says men are like Indians—the only good ones are the dead ones.

When Aldrich praises democrats (so-called) it is time for them to "doff the lion's skin for shame and hang a calf's hide on their recreant limbs."

It does us good to see our paragraphs printed without credit in the editorial columns of exchanges. In literature, plagiarism is the sincerest flattery.

Every man and woman with an unperturbed conscience feels that money gained by gambling or speculation is different from money secured by giving an honest equivalent.

The Galveston Tribune says: "President Taft is short on noise, but he manages to make what he says go just the same." He hasn't made what he said about tariff reform go through congress.

PARKER SCHOOL HOUSE.

(Correspondent.)

A most pleasant day was enjoyed Sunday at the Parker school house. Rev. Nash of Calvert preached a beautiful sermon on "Heaven" at 11 o'clock the discourse being based on the description of Heaven recorded in Revelations.

After the service a splendid dinner was spread out in the grove, such as the good ladies of the community know how to prepare in a way to make glad the heart of man.

When dinner was over the people reassembled and a good old fashioned song service was enjoyed, and then the Sunday school was conducted, which was largely attended.

Quite a number of young people from Bryan were there and helped to make and helped to enjoy the pleasures of the day.

Arrangements were discussed for a revival to be held in the near future.
